
OLIVER, BEAT AR, IS GUARDED

Employs Twelve Detectives to Protect Him from Black
Hand Threats.

WATCH DAY AND NIGHT

NEW YORK, April 11.—Night and day detectives guard John D. Rockefeller and his family from the black hand. Since the receipt of letters from black hand letters, threatening harm to the life of the O. R. K. has established a strong bodyguard to protect his family. A body of twelve detectives is kept on duty to guard the Rockefeller family.

The O. R. K. guard is working under the direction of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is taking every precaution looking to the safety of his father and himself. The father of the O. R. K. is Mrs. Harriet M. Rockefeller.

The protective corps accompanied the Rockefeller party on the way North, being present during the last stage of the journey by four detectives in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Fear an Attack.
That the Rockefeller fear an attack on the Standard Oil magnate is shown by the action of the Rockefeller family and at New York City on arrival there yesterday. Detectives drove back the crowd to a distance whenever they showed intention of approaching the Rockefeller family.

Guard House All Night.
All through the night the detectives remained on guard outside of the Rockefeller house, and inside, relieved by fresh squads every hour. The bodyguard will be maintained until the departure of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the danger has passed.

Keep Crowds Away.
But the officials would not do anything of the kind, and as a result the detectives devoted their time in keeping the crowd away from the automobile in which the Rockefeller party waited.

Threaten Plot.
As the C. & O. Atlantic express came into the depot, Mr. Rockefeller gave a few whispered instructions to the private detectives, who at once surrounded a photographer and told him they would smash his camera if he tried to take any photograph.

Mr. and Mrs. Rockefeller occupied the last of the train, where the private detectives by shaking hands with them before they got into the train.

A Spirited and Splendid Painting Reproduced in Handsome Colors on Heavy Paper, Ready for Framing
"THE EXCOMMUNICATION OF KING ROBERT THE PIOUS"

Heaven for the woman he loved on earth. The subject of the painter is the moment just after his excommunication by Pope Gregory—leaving him alone, bowed down on his throne, crushed by the terrible ordeal, and with the woman clinging to him. It is the supremely tragical moment when his tortured spirit is groaning within him: "What have I done? Gained the woman I loved, but lost my soul to the devil."

OPERA-GUERS CHEER CARUSO AND CAVALIERI

Enthusiasm Boundless at Last Night's Performance of Manon Lescaut.

WAS AN ENDLESS OVATION

It is a question which was the greater attraction at the Boston Theatre last evening—the opera "Manon Lescaut," and Caruso, and Cavalieri on her first appearance here, or the luminous audience that was so wildly enthusiastic over the singing that they remained for twenty minutes after the final curtain had been drawn, and then cheer more and more as Caruso and Cavalieri walked back and forth in front of the curtain.

Manon Lescaut was the most interesting performance of the week. The beautiful, graceful Italian was heartily welcomed. After her first song she got an ovation, and the rest of the evening continued all evening. Her voice was a surprise, sweet, pure, and full of wonderful range. Not once did she strike a false note, not once did she sink under the strain of sustained notes, nor once did she fail to give all of her power, and the audience fairly gasped with joy, particularly the darkness of the opera, who yielded themselves to her.

Caruso shared the honors with her. He was in unusually good voice, too. His voice was a surprise, sweet, pure, and full of wonderful range. Not once did he strike a false note, not once did he sink under the strain of sustained notes, nor once did he fail to give all of his power, and the audience fairly gasped with joy, particularly the darkness of the opera, who yielded themselves to her.

THE GOVERNOR GAINS RAPIDLY

Governor Curtis Guild, Jr., is so far in progress today that, beginning tomorrow night, there will be only one bulletin in and every other night, with no daily bulletins.

In Frederick B. Whitson, the attending physician said today:

"The Governor's improvement continues. No bulletin will be issued tomorrow. But bulletins will be issued Tuesday, Thursday, and on Saturday."

DOUBLE ROMANCE AFTER ELOPEMENT OF SISTERS

Mrs. Vittoria Consolo, aged seventeen (upper picture), and Mrs. Connetta Maggio, aged fourteen (lower), sisters who figured in double elopement from South Boston to Providence, where, after an exciting experience, they were married. They have been forgiven and expect to live happily ever after.

Two romances in one resulted from the elopement of Vittoria Consolo, seventeen years old, and Connetta Maggio, fourteen years old, sisters living at No. 235 Fourth street, South Boston, who left their home last Sunday and after a day in Providence, went to Providence to get married. The young men in the case were Italian barbers, Giuseppe Consolo, seventeen years old, and Luigi Maggio, eighteen years old. All four were found today at their father-in-law's home in South Boston.

Consolo, talking about their experience said:

"We met the girls Sunday, and Monday morning we left Boston on the 9 A. M. train for Providence to get married. We all came from the same place in Italy, Maine, and we boys had known the girls for a couple of years. We all attend the same church on Harrison avenue, Boston."

RACES PROVE MAGNET FOR MISS ELKINS

Maintains Silence About Engagement to Duke of the Abruzzi.

"BILLY" HITT A SUITOR?

WASHINGTON, April 11.—In spite of the fact that her engagement to the Duke of the Abruzzi has been positively made certain to the public, Miss Elkins also is paying no heed to the persistent inquiries of her intimate friends concerning her plans. Nearly every day she appears at the races at Hingham with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hayes, the former the owner of the track, one of the state of the spring season at Hingham. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes are house guests of Senator and Mrs. Elkins.

At the clubhouse at Hingham Miss Elkins is not only the most observed in the crowd of smart young women, but she is also the most talked about. Her engagement to the Duke of the Abruzzi, one of the most popular men of the younger set, and an ardent horseman.

Now that the rumor of her engagement to the Duke of the Abruzzi has been positively made certain to the public, Miss Elkins has been so completely absorbed in her duties to the Duke of the Abruzzi, that she has been unable to give any attention to her suitors.

"Billy" Hitt is popular with all the girls, and although he and Miss Elkins are both members of the Cherry Chase Club, and occasionally go to the races together, there has been no suggestion of a romance between them. Hitt was graduated from Yale in 1904, and is now a member of the American League in New York.

CHISEL GOUGES OUT EYE.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 11.—A man met an eye by the breaking of a value of a chisel which he was using in his workshop. The chisel broke and a fragment of the chisel struck his eye, severing the artery and allowing the blood to fall to the ground.
